One of the downsides of having a phone in your pocket all the time is unwanted calls. Sure, you could simply not answer the call, but that's still annoying. You can avoid this by blocking unknown numbers on Android. What is an "Unknown" Number? We're going to be showing you how to block calls from "unknown" numbers, but what does that actually mean? In short, it blocks any call from a private or unknown number. This does not mean it will block calls from numbers not included in your contacts, as it does on iPhone. Private and unknown calls literally appear on caller ID without a phone number. Blocking these calls will not block calls from regular phone numbers, even if they aren't in your contacts. RELATED: How to Add a Contact to the Home Screen on Android How to Block Unknown Callers From Google Phone First, we'll show you how to block unknown callers from the "Phone by Google" app. You can download the app from the Play Store and set it as the default dialer. It will ask to be set as default when you install it, but if you miss that you can do so from Settings > Apps > Default Apps > Phone App. Now go to the Phone by Google app. Now go to the Phone by Google app and tap the three-dot menu icon in the top-right corner. Select "Settings" from the menu. Select "Blocked Numbers." Toggle the switch on for "Unknown." That's it! You will no longer receive calls from unidentified callers. How to Block Unknown Callers on a Samsung Phone If you have a Samsung Galaxy phone and don't want to use the Google Phone app, we'll show you how it works with Samsung's stock dialer. Open the "Phone" app and—from the "Keypad" tab—tap the three-dot menu icon in the top-right. Select "Settings" from the menu. Go to "Block Numbers." Toggle the switch on for "Block Unknown/Private Numbers." You're all set! Calls from unidentified numbers will no longer ring your phone. Hopefully, this will reduce the number of calls you have to ignore. Android has some other tools you can use to limit spam calls as well. RELATED: How to Avoid Spam Robocalls with "Verified Calls" on Android Very few things are as annoying as getting a phone call or text from someone you do not know. Android phones have become quite popular in this technology-driven world. Because of its ease & availability, people now prefer to use their smartphones over PCs & Laptops. Whether the task is related to office work or surfing the internet or paying utility bills or shopping, or streaming & gaming, users choose to do it on their smartphones, on-the-go. Despite the ease of operation & management on your phone, your contact number sharing cannot be avoided. Because of this, the most common issue that cellular users face is getting numerous spam calls. These calls are usually from telemarketing companies trying to sell products, or from your service provider informing you about new offers, or strangers who want to be pranksters. It is a pestering nuisance. It becomes even more frustrating when such calls are made from private numbers. Note: Private numbers are those numbers whose phone numbers are not displayed on the receiving end. Therefore, you end up taking the call, thinking that it might be someone important. If you are someone looking for tips to avoid such calls, you are at the right place. We did some research to bring to you a comprehensive guide that will help you block calls from private numbers on your Android phone. You can block a phone number or a contact on your smartphone by following these easy steps: 1. Open the "Phone" app from the home screen. 2. Select the "Number" or "Contact" you wish to block from your call history on AT&T then t data-preserve-spaces="true">ap on the "Information" icon from the available options
